Meeting of Democratic County Committee

Interesting in Every Particular, Strong Resolutions, Speeches, &c.

The Democratic County Committee met at the Court House on Monday last, with a good attendance. The meeting was called to order by Vice Chairman, Emory D. Claar, owing to the sickness of Chairman, Victor E. P. Barkman. The first in order was the reading of the call by Vice Chairman, and the roll call to which the following members responded: Bedford Borough, E. W., James F. Mickel; Bedford Borough, W. W., Jo. W. Tate; Bedford Township, E. A. Hershberger; Broad Top Township, Wade H. Figard; Colerain Township, A. A. Diehl; Harrison Township, John H. Trusheim; Hopewell Borough, Dr. S. F. Campbell; Juniata Township, L. C. Markel; Kimmell Township, W. E. Hoenstine; Monroe Township, Silas Fletcher; Napier, Joseph Souser; New Paris, Warren J. Mickel; West Providence, R. W. Weight; Rainsburg, J. B. Cessna; Schellsburg, Walter F. Schell; Snake Spring, Grant Bollman; Mann's Choice, F. B. Suter, Southampton No. 3, Samuel Bartholow; King, Wm. Weyant.

After the roll call the Chair appointed E. A. Hershberger, Dr. S. F. Campbell and J. B. Cessna, a committee on Resolutions. The convention then proceeded to elect the officers for the ensuing year resulting in no contest as follows: Chairman, Emory D. Claar; Vice Chairman, Joseph Souser; Secretaries, Jo. W. Tate and James Mickel; Treasurer, Dr. W. F. Enfield; Executive Committee, F. E. Colvin, A. B. Egolf, John Fletcher, Dr. W. F. Enfield and John P. Cuppitt. Dr. W. F. Enfield read a very interesting and encouraging letter from Democratic State Chairman. Speeches were made by Emory D. Claar, Dr. S. F. Campbell, Joseph Souser, W. E. Hoenstine and Dr. W. F. Enfield.

The committee on Resolutions then read, and the Convention adopted the following:

Resolutions

Whereas, in these fateful days dynasties are falling and dominions are changing, our first and highest duty is to our Country and to humanity, and since we have been unwillingly forced into this war, to protect our rights and to preserve our honor, and now have gladly joined in defense of liberty and justice, after every demand for consideration has been refused, our repeated warnings for violation of our rights having been disregarded, and our remonstrances for wrongs endured, having been despised, we realize the American people must either combat the iron hand of despotism or resign their liberties. There is no alternative. A powerful enemy is at our door. Nothing but the most imperious necessity has justified our entrance, to rescue Europe from the tyrants grasp, as well as save ourselves from destruction. And it now depends upon us, whether we shall continue a free, happy and united people or become subjects of his imperial majesty across the sea. Therefore, let us display the spirit of our fathers and rush to uphold the principles of the government under which we live.

Here at this time, we desire to emphasize the importance of at once lending a helping hand and aiding the nation in every possible way. And we believe we speak for all, especially the Democrats of Bedford County, whom we represent, in pledging their support to the President and their loyal service to the nation, not only for the relief of suffering humanity, but for any purpose for which the Country needs us.

We know how important have been the declarations and utterances of our President, voiced from time to time through the Congress, to our own people and to all foreign nations. Stating our position in this controversy and demanding proper treatment to neutrals. Only those who have no interest near or remote in America's institutions, and are secretly plotting against us, are unwilling to stand against a ruthless aggression. We are convinced that malice towards our form of government, and designs against our future, have induced a monarch to slight our petitions, and menace our safety by repeated attacks against our people.

But, we rejoice that the mantle of Jefferson has fallen in our day, upon the shoulders of one so well able to wear it. That the American people will follow where he leads, is evidenced on all sides by the unanimity, with which all the people conscious of the justice of our cause, are falling in behind our leader.

We believe this is an opportune time to reaffirm our allegiance to our government and to offer a tribute to the energy, skill and resourcefulness of President Wilson, for clearly presenting our demands and boldly taking the necessary steps to maintain our rights, in defense of which we have decided to use all the force of our army and navy. Our success with that of our allies, is essential to the welfare of the world. Defeat would mean not only disaster to ourselves, but the retrogression of all nations. Although this government was not instituted for the purpose of offensive warfare, and to use its own language it was framed for "the common defense and general welfare," nevertheless we will prepare in every way to prevent injustice and oppression, and to hold and transmit to our posterity the blessings of liberty, which we now enjoy, that the existence of the race and the development of civilization shall not be endangered.

In this effort the President has the confidence of all classes, and has shown his wisdom by recruiting his staff from the most successful men in the field, where ever they were found able business men, professional men and men of the rank and file, who can be depended upon to carry our arms to victory, backed up at home by the men in the industries, and by that great army of tillers of the soil, who will labor to provide the food and munitions.

Also by the women of the land, who will work to provide the materials to protect the men from the elements and relieve them in distress. This is a fight for a Democratic form of government and against autocracy; a struggle for the ideals of this Republic, as enunciated by Thomas Jefferson,—that a free government derives its just powers from the consent of the governed—from the people; a fight for the principle that all men shall be free and in opposition to the autocratic theory of Bismark, that a King is a divine institution and gets his power from on high; and that the people have no say.

This is a fight against the false theory that one man has a divine right to rule and can coerce, control, and own a people—declare war upon it pleased him and drive those people to destruction, for personal revenge and glory. We resolve therefore, to contend for the Democratic form of government and laying aside our individual interests, willingly make the great sacrifice to prove that the spirit of liberty still abides on the earth.

E. A. Hershberger,
F. S. Campbell,
J. B. Cessna,
Committee.

A Mission

A Mission will be given in St. Thomas' Catholic Church, beginning Sunday, June 10th, and ending, Sunday, June 17th. The custom of having missions has been in the Catholic church for centuries. It received a great impetus seven hundred years ago by the successful work against the Albigensians heresy of the Finars-Preachers organized by St. Dominic to give missions.

A mission means a time set apart in a special way for God, a time in which to recall to mind and meditate upon the great truths of Christianity. As the sermons during the mission are non-controversial, all lovers of Christ and His teaching are invited to attend.

Father J. P. M. Walsh, who is to give the Mission is a member of the Jesuit order, the most famous religious order in the world. They were founded by a wounded soldier, St. Ignatius of Loyola. His purpose was to have well trained, hard disciplined men, as valiant soldiers of the cross of Christ.

They have lived up to the intention of their founder. A most fascinating account of their early labors among the Indians of this Continent may be found in the work of Parkman the great historian of our early days. Father Walsh gave a Mission in Tyrone a few months ago. The editor of the Tyrone Herald, a non-Catholic, attended all the sermons and this is what he had to say of Father Walsh.

"Father Walsh is a man of powerful physique, rich voice, splendid culture and his is a most impressive personality. His sermons are clothed in the choicest language, yet are so simple and direct as to be clear as day to every understanding. He is undoubtedly high among the most eloquent and polished orators, who have ever spoken in Tyrone, and his deep earnestness in his exalted work carries profound conviction to his auditors."

Sperry W. Oster

HARRISBURG NEWS LETTER

Pennsylvania's notorious do-nothing Legislature has qualified for ridding itself of that unpleasant description. It does do something. It kills time. Indubitable proof of this was presented by the inexcusable recess from May 29 to June 6.

With calendars in a state of congestion rarely achieved; with committees choked with legislation which has not been considered; with state departments and employes facing dreary weeks of no money because of expiration of all appropriations on May 31; with the really patriotic members chafing under a desire to finish their "work" and get home for good, the Penrose legislative leaders nevertheless insisted on adding practically two weeks to the many weeks which already have been wasted.

One direct result is that adjournment sine die (or an indefinite recess amounting to final adjournment, for all present purposes,) cannot be taken earlier than June 28, and probably not then.

Virtually no work was accomplished last week; about as much will be done this week.

It was noticeable in the House that the Democrats and the anti-Penrose Republicans were patiently in favor of remaining at work. But the Penrose men lined up in favor of the recess till June 6. Having passed the Senate, the recess resolution got thru the House with only eighty-eight votes for it and fifty-four against it. This was sufficient, however, as such a motion does not require the constitutional majority of 100 votes. The vote was merely a tying one, with three or four score members not voting. Most of them were not in Harrisburg. Knowing that the Legislature would do little, dozens of the Penrose men ignored the rules of the House and their oaths of office and remained away.

No opposition was manifested to adjourning over Memorial Day. Celebration of that semi-sacred occasion in a formal way was regarded as eminently fitting. But speaker after speaker urged upon the House that quitting work because of the national Registration Day June 5 was no manifestation of real patriotism. They pointed out that the two or three men in the Legislature eligible to registration could be given leave of absence or could be registered by mail. They pleaded for continued activity and an early adjournment. But the Penrose contingent was obdurate. They wanted to adjourn and that's all there was to it.

Members who opposed the recess forecast precisely what would happen this week—that many members would not come back for the Wednesday session and another week would be lost. So certain was this result that Miles A. Milliron, of Armstrong, one of the staunch Penrose men in the rural contingent, strove to have the recess extended to June 11. He declared it was the only consistent thing to do, if a recess were to be taken over Registration Day.

One reason suggested for the Penrose desire for a recess is that he thus increases the pay of the army of per diem employes who are costing the state something like $1,400 a day. Their pay ends when the gavel falls sine die. This patronage is about all that Penrose has left. He has no federal patronage, none in Philadelphia, none at Harrisburg, except the Legislature. True, Penrose controls both Auditor General Charles A. Snyder and State Treasurer Harmon M. Kephart, but up to date he doesn't seem to control appointments in their offices. It is said that the Brumbaugh-Vare forces have served definite notice that for every man from these offices they'll fire at least ten from departments controlled by the governor. The report finds weight.

Ugly tho the thought is that anyone would prolong a session (particularly such a useless session) merely to milk a few more dollars from the treasury, it is by no means discredited about the legislative halls. It at least suggests a reason for the Penrose apparent anxiety to keep the Legislature in Harrisburg all summer it suggests the only reason which has advanced so far.

Possibly another "date for final adjournment will be fixed" soon. Last month the House "fixed" June 14 as the date to quit. Many of the men who supported the resolution were sincere. But those on the inside knew they were being fooled—and said so. Events have proved it. The Senate canned the resolution. It was thought that the Senate would take some early action, probably by amending the date to be June 21 or 28. It didn't. Now the Senate has the whip-hand more than ever. It can hold the resolution as long as it pleases to do so. Only complete agreement can bring about final adjournment. The only salvation for the House would be to get into a fight with the Senate about adjournment. The constitution provides that in case of disagreement about final adjournment the governor may adjourn both for not more than four months.

Final adjournment, or recess, or anything else except some sort of work is out of the question, of course until money for the state government for the next two years is appropriated.

Holding up the payrolls by the do-nothing session is regarded as a shabby trick, generally. It has become not uncommon in recent years. In 1913, the worst example, all state employes had to go without pay from June 1 until well along toward August 1. This isn't particularly convenient even for the man who gets a thousand dollars a month. For the man who gets from $200 down to $60 a month it's a decided hardship.

Republicans owe their supremacy in Pennsylvania largely to the horde of officeholders on the state payroll—some 6,000 or so. It is to many of these that "the organization" turns on election day and other opportune occasions. They are expected "to deliver" then, and usually do. Naturally, they don't like it when the Legislature dawdles along and holds up their pay. They declare that even if the assembly can't finish its work it at least could shoot thru some sort of a bill to provide for their pay.

Under existing system, appropriations run from June 1 to May 31. Amounts are appropriated for two-year periods. Appropriations made by the 1915 session expired May 31, 1917. No more money can be forthcoming, therefore, until the governor has disposed of the general appropriation bill which the present session will pass. And, unfortunately for those who need the money, that bill, like other appropriations, never gets to the governor in such shape that he can approve it forthwith. He has to prune it, like the others, at that takes days.

All that has saved Governor Brumbaugh from bitter criticism because of his action in view of the vacancy in the 28th Congressional District is that he pleaded economy in announcing that a special election to choose a successor in congress to O. D. Bleakly will be on the regular election day next November.

A really efficient governor, of course, would have ordered an election in March, as soon as Bleakly was forced to resign by the batteries turned on him in federal court by United States District Attorney E. Lowry Humes. That is not Dr. Brumbaugh's way, however. He usually acts on nothing until the last moment allowed by law. This makes his comparatively early announcement of November 6 for the 28th District Election rather peculiar.

All that really has been lost by the governor's inaction is that Pennsylvania has been with one less congressman than is allowed the state, and the 28th district has been without representation at all, except the indirect representation thru the four congressmen-at-large. As party lines have gone down pretty well at Washington under the stress of the international crisis, the lack of one congressman has not worked a great hardship, perhaps, upon anyone.

Interest is focussed now in the House on the Sarig public charities bill and the Sarig anti-trust bill. Both can be disposed of by the House before the middle of June, if the House wants to.

The anti-trust bill, which would do more to lower the cost of living than any other proposition before the Legislature, has reached the stage of third reading and final passage; but as there are 138 other bills ahead of it in the same stage it will require some days to reach it. The Sarig bill is the only measure before the Legislature which is aimed to cut down living costs.

The public charities bill, which would distribute state appropriations to charities in a sensible way instead of by the present extravagant logging system, is on the second reading calendar. It would have been passed on to third reading last week if the House really had done anything instead of frittering away two days and then dwindling into a recess.

National Guard to Be in France in Time for Autumn Drive of Allies

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The National Guard will be on the French front in time for the autumn drive according to indications at the War Department today. They are expected to be the first reinforcements for the initial division which Maj. Gen. John J. Pershing will command in France. The regular army will be held in America until later to train its own new increments and the 500,000 selective conscripts, who will be brought in through the draft. Word to this effect was spread through the War Department following an announcement by Secretary Baker that only 16 of the 32 training camps will be of wooden construction. These will be in the northern states. The men at the other 16 camps will be under canvas. These will be located in the southern states.

Story of the First Registration in Bible History

Campbell Rutledge, a very busy man, took time yesterday to look up the first recorded registration day, which was quite an important affair. The fourth book of Moses is called Numbers because it begins with the numbering of the people in the second year after their going out of Egypt. It was no small task, but it was accomplished without typewriters, stenographers, telegraph, telephones or railroads.

"Take the sum of all the congregation of the children of Israel by their families, and houses, and the names of everyone, as many as are of the male sex, from 20 years old and upwards, of all the men of Israel fit for war, and number them by their troops." That was the order to Moses and Aaron.

The whole number of fighting men was 603,550, excluding the Levites, who were selected to carry the tabernacle and to be ministers and guards about it. The Levites were the first-born of every family. They had no part in war.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

(By Sir Walter Scott)

Breathes there the man with soul so dead

Who never to himself hath said,

This is my own, my native land!

Whose heart hath ne'er within him burned,

As home his footsteps he hath turned

From wandering on a foreign strand?

If such there breathe, go, mark him well;

For him no minstrel raptures swell;

High though his titles, proud his name,

Boundless his wealth as wish can claim,

Despite those titles, power, and pelf,

The wretch, concentered all in self,

Living, shall forfeit fair renown,

And, doubly dying, shall go down

To the vile dust from whence he sprung,

Unwept, unhonored, and unsung

CHILDREN ON FARMS

State Education Board Favors New Idea to Help Crops

Harrisburg, Pa., June 5.—That pupils in the public schools who are over twelve years of age and who stand well in their classes should be permitted to quit school in order to work on the farms, is the stand taken by the state board of education, in a statement issued. Directors are advised that it is within their province to exclude such children from the provisions of the truancy laws.

In order that no question may arise concerning the state appropriations, which are contingent upon the length of the term, the bill introduced in the senate by Senator Jones, of Susquehanna, is being pushed as rapidly as possible. The measure authorizes all districts that may care to do so to close their schools and stipulates that they waive no appropriation rights by so doing.

TREE TALK

Do you know what the timber in your woodlot is worth? Thousands of trees are sold every year for a fraction of their real value. If you are in doubt, write to the Pennsylvania Department of Forestry.

Few jobs are so thoroughly done as the examination of title to lands acquired for State Forests. Experts searchers trace the title to every plot from the time the Commonwealth originally owned it to the present, almost a century and a quarter. As a result, there has never been a successful contest to the title of a single acre of the State Forests.

A thing which is causing Pennsylvania foresters some uneasiness is the growing shortage of camp cooks. Almost all of the old-time woods cooks have followed the lumberman south or west.

There are over 400 game, fish, and forestry associations in Pennsylvania. Their combined membership is probably 40,000.

In spite of old H. C. L., one Pennsylvania State Forest tree-planting camp served 3,000 meals last spring at an average cost of sixteen and one-half cents each.

Pennsylvania Forestry Notes

Judging from bills for forest fire extinction submitted to date, there will be a deficiency to June 1st, 1917 of almost $15,000 in the forest fire fund of the Department of Forestry. Legislature two years ago appropriated only $45,000 for forest fire prevention and extinction, and it was predicted then that even if the whole sum should be used to extinction and no preventive measures undertaken, a deficiency appropriation would be necessary to meet fire bills. This is practically what has happened for scarcely any of the money has been used for preventing fires.

There has been an exceptionally large crop of small forest fires this spring, which has helped to swell the total of the bills. Heavier expenses for extinction have been incurred since April first of this year than during all of last year. Last week's rains, however, have ended the season of exceptional danger in most parts of the State, and almost all of the foresters except those in the north tier report that it is not likely that there will be more fires before fall. Weather records show that this has been the driest spring in years, and during one week of May a high wind blew almost continuously. More fires occurred during this one week than during the rest of the fire season.

Penn State Ambulance Units Mustered Into U. S. Service

State College, Pa., June 5.—Two ambulance units, made up of students from the Pennsylvania State College, have been mustered into government service for early duty in France. Lieutenant J. W. Whitehouse of the Medical Reserve Corps, spent two days here examining the recruits and enlisting them.

Fifty five students were sworn in. They will be ordered to the Allentown concentration camp this week, where they will be equipped and trained in ambulance driving for a month. About the middle of July, it is expected, they will be sent to Europe.

Each of the State College units will have a first sergeant, second sergeant, corporal, two cooks, two orderlies, two clerks, a chief mechanic, two assistant mechanics and twenty-four drivers.

Wild Lettuce as Greens

Wild or tall lettuce, sometimes also called false dandelion, is a leaf green that few people know or appreciate. Its leaf is similar to the dandelion. It is, however more tender and somewhat less bitter.

This plant differs from the dandelion. It has a central stalk, and like Swiss chard, sometimes called "poor man's vegetable," and New Zealand spinach will, if kept picked close, continue to put forth young and tender leaves. It may, therefore, be used much later than dandelion or other greens.

Wild lettuce may be used in any of the ways that other leaf greens are used. Served with French dressing, of three parts of oil to one part of water and seasoned to taste with salt and capenne pepper, the central tender leaves make a nice salad.

This green is also good, according to Miss Pearl MacDonald, in charge of home economics extension at the Pennsylvania State College, steamed until tender and seasoned with butter, pepper and salt. A little vinegar may be added if desired, also some crisp bacon cut into small pieces.

Everybody in Russia favors energetic prosecution of the war and no one is willing either to fight or work. Among the most thorough food surveys are those made by the boys in the pantry after returning from school.

Some people's objection to the Liberty bonds is not so much the rate of interest as that they need the money for cigars.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD TO REDUCE PASSENGER TRAINS

Mr. George D. Dixon, Vice President in Charge of Traffic of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, today made the following announcement.

To conform with the recommendations of the Railroads' War Board, issued from Washington, D. C., and calling upon all lines to readjust their services with a view to conserving fuel supply and increasing capacity for moving coal, food, Government material and troops, the Pennsylvania Railroad will, in the near future, put into effect a general, and quite extensive, revision of its passenger train schedules. The final details are now being worked out and will be announced to the public promptly upon completion.

In the meantime, we wish to explain, as clearly as possible, the purposes that we are seeking to accomplish and the conditions which have made it inevitable that we should take this step.

At the outset, we desire to emphasize the fact that the object sought is not financial economy or an increase in net revenues. In reality, a sacrifice in revenues will result.

The economies which we are endeavoring to effect are physical and are being devised for the sole purpose of increasing, as much as possible, the amount of transportation service, of the most urgently necessary kinds, that can be rendered to the Government and the public with the railroad plant that is at our disposal.

In brief, we are attempting two things: First, to increase immediately the movement of such freight as foodstuffs and other necessities of life; second, to clear our lines for the prompt handling of Government supplies and troops, which must shortly be transported on a large scale.

As our lines, terminals and locomotives are now being used to the maximum of their capacity, the only way in which we can provide for the increased Government traffic, and for the freer movement of perishable and other necessary freight, is to reduce the number of passenger train units that are being operated over the railroad. This will release both trackage and engines for other forms of service. We shall endeavor to accomplish this purpose in the following ways:

1. By consolidating passenger trains wherever practicable, thus making one train unit serve the purpose of two or more.

2. By the entire elimination, in some cases, of trains on which the patronage is very small.

3. By reducing the number of restaurant cars, and in no case operating more than one restaurant car on a train.

4. By reducing the number of parlor and sleeping cars, and by decreasing or possibly discontinuing, the use of Club or observation cars.

We expect, through these means, to cut down the movement of passenger trains, on our Lines East of Pittsburgh, by a total of about 6,000 train-miles per day.

Between New York and Washington an unprecedented amount of passenger traffic is now being handled. With the present number of passenger trains it is impossible to avoid operating some of them on the freight tracks. Each train so operated monopolizes 50 miles or more of freight track during its run. If, by consolidating two passenger trains, we can remove one from the freight tracks, we shall have gained that much more line for the handling of the foodstuffs which are now so urgently, and in such enormous quantities, being pressed for shipment from the South.

Between the East and the West, we hope to consolidate certain through passenger trains, and in this way materially increase the amount of freight traffic that can be handled over the main stem of the system.

Branch line and local service will be dealt with similarly, as conditions on the various Divisions require.

As far as can now be foreseen, we will be able to furnish substantially the usual summer service to seashore and other resort points, beginning July 1st. This is because the lines reaching such points, for the most part, handle little freight and do not seem likely to be ly, in the near future, for military purposes. Circumstances, of course, may at any time alter and necessitate a change of our plans in this regard.

There is a practical limit to the length and weight of trains which cannot be exceeded. Each restaurant car we take off can be replaced by a day coach, thus increasing by at least 80 passengers the number that can be carried in a given train. This will permit consolidation of trains in cases where otherwise the step would be impossible. In many instances passengers can, with little inconvenience to themselves, arrange to take their meals before boarding trains, or at the end of the journey.

Similar reasons exist for reducing the number of parlor cars, as they carry only about 30 passengers each, compared with nearly three times that number carried in a day coach. Club and observation cars are usually a duplication of parlor or sleeping car facilities in the same train, and can be eliminated without hardship. The number of sleepers can be reduced by making better use of upper berths.

All of these steps will mean fewer train units in the passenger service, and more locomotives and tracks for troops, Government supplies and freight.

In revising the passenger train schedules upon all portions of the railroad, we are using every precaution to do so with the least possible inconvenience to the public. We believe that in no case will serious inconvenience be caused, and no necessary travel will be interfered with.

Our purpose in this preliminary announcement is merely to explain what we have in view, in order that the necessities for the changes may be better understood when they are put into effect. We earnestly trust and hope that we will have the full co-operation of the public in this step which is an unavoidable duty if this Railroad is to render the greatest service in its power to the country during the present period of emergency.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

THE FLAG

(By Arthur Macy)

Here comes the flag.

Hail it!

Who dares to drag

Or trail it?

Give it hurrahs—

Three for the stars,

Three for the bars.

Uncover your head to it!

The soldiers who tread to it

Shout at the sight of it,

The justice and right of it,

The unsullied white of it,

The blue and the red of it,

And the tyranny's dread of it!

Here comes the flag!

Cheer it!

Valley and crag

Shall hear it.

Fathers shall bless it,

Children caress it

All shall maintain it.

No one shall stain it.

Cheers for the soldiers that fought on the wave for it,

Cheers for the soldiers that always were brave for it,

Tears for the men that went down to the grave for it.

Here comes the flag!

—Youth's Companion.

SALUTE THE FLAG

(By Henry C. Bunner)

Off with your hat as the flag goes by!

And let the heart have its say;

You're man enough for a tear in your eye

That you will not wipe away.

You're man enough for a thrill that goes

To your very finger-tips;

Ay! the lump just then in your throat that rose

Spoke more than your parted lips.

Lift up your boy on your shoulder

high,

And show him the faded shred—

Those stripes would be red as the sun set sky

If death could have dyed them red

The old tune thunders through all the air,

And strikes right into the heart;

If ever it calls for you, boy, be there!

Be there, and ready to start.

Off with your hat as the flag goes by!

Uncover the youngster's head!

Teach him to hold it holy and high,

For the sake of its sacred dead.

FIREMEN IN SMALL CITIES

Put Under Civil Service by Catlin Bill

Harrisburg, Pa., April 24.—Governor Brumbaugh's approval is the only thing necessary now to place firemen of third class cities under civil service. The Catlin bill extending civil service protection to firemen passed the house by a vote of 161 to 4.

This is the first civil service bill to pass the legislature in many years and the only one affecting third class cities.

"Poor Jim."

They tell it of a place on Van Buren street:

"Here," said the proprietor, "is a little gift for you and Jim. Each bottle is finest old whiskey. You drop in at Jim's on your way and give him this, will you?"

"Certainly," cried the grateful one. On his way he fell and broke one bottle.

"Poor Jim!" he muttered, picking himself up.—Chicago Herald.

TUESDAY

HOW the old range does love to heat things up, especially when it's sizzling hot outside! Then, there's always the coal or wood to carry, always that constant raking and poking, pulling this and pushing that, to keep the fire going.

But the ironing must be done. There's no other way to do it, is there? No, not unless you have a New Perfection Oil Cook Stove in your kitchen.

NEW PERFECTION OIL COOK STOVES

have made thousands of women happy—freed them from the ironing day and the everyday drudgery and overwork you have now.

A Perfection will heat the irons on Tuesdays. And it's always ready to bake, fry, boil or roast at the strike of a match. You'll be particularly interested in the separate oven and the fireless cooker. Your dealer will explain about them. Ask him.

THE ATLANTIC REFINING COMPANY Philadelphia and Pittsburgh

One of the many good points about a Perfection is that it burns the most economical fuel—kerosene. And the best kerosene is Rayolight. It's so highly refined that it burns without smoking, sputtering, smoldering or charring the wicks. Look for this sign:

CONSERVATION OF EDUCATION

Little Talks on Health and Hygiene by Samuel G. Dixon, M. D. LL. D.
Commissioner of Health

The physical and mental strength of a student is rarely considered by the educator. The result of this is that we have a vast number of nervous wrecks, a burden to themselves and to the public because they are too weak, either physically or mentally, or both, to stand what is placed upon them by the teachers. Many of them, if strong enough physically, have not been born with sufficient gray matter ever to apply the higher education with which it is sought to equip them, should they live through the ordeal.

Teaching does not produce brain substance, but only arms the brain with tools for the struggle of modern achievement. Not only are children forced by teachers beyond their natural aptitude, but frequently to death.

Along the tracks of education there should be many stations where children could be discharged, fitted to fill situations consistent with what nature had intended them to perform. To accomplish this in public education, the curriculum would have to be adjusted so as to round up certain degrees of education essential for them to pursue successfully some of the lesser positions in life.

The present system of having a continuous chain of study from the primary school to the high school leaves no link that is complete within itself to provide for many of the occupations which are humble but still indispensable to our existence in civilized life.

Those sufficiently endowed with natural ability to make use of the higher education really represent a minority of our children. Those with weaker mentality, who are forced to keep up with those more richly endowed so that they may graduate from our high schools, are often rendered too proud to seek the more humble positions in life. Many of these who find themselves in the position become a burden to the public and often tumble into paths of dissipation.

This chat is not my first attempt during my life to awaken the educators to the necessity of recognizing the fact that nature has not made us all alike. This great variation is found in animate and inanimate life and is generally consistent with the versatility of the necessities of man.

The teaching world, however, seems to be too highly specialized to take a broad view of the subject. Since it has failed, parents will have to provide the solution themselves. Let them lay aside sentiment and try to measure their children's capacities for education and their aptitude to us education, so that they may be prepared by the proper kind of education to succeed in the character of work nature endowed them for.

This want of having more varied courses of study to meet the varied mental capacities of the students and their positions in life, has always been of vital importance. But in these war days wise conservation of education and health are doubly vital. If we are to lose some of our people in the war, one way of making up will be to educate more properly those remaining.

Give You a Toast (By Olin Lyman)

I give you a toast of your early days
Of the earliest days you knew,
When you clutched the gold in the sun's warm rays,

And the wonder-breezes blew,
When over your cradle there shone a face

Of love like a tender pain,
Such live as broods in a garden-place
When the spring is born again.

I give you a toast to the hands that toiled,
To the patient lips that prayed,
To the care that a thousand dangers foiled,

To the eyes that were not afraid,
That looked to the road of the coming years
And fashioned for you a dream.

To the joy and sorrow, the smiles and tears,
To the shadows and to the gleam.

I give you a toast to the soul that trod
The depths of the vale of death,
That humbly walked 'neath the ancient rod

For the birth of your fluttering breath;
To a love that glows like a deathless rose

When the fields of life lie dead—
I pledge you the name that the Great Source knows:

Your mother—now bow your head

SIMPLIFYING GRADUATIONS

In the typical school graduation of the past, finery, flowers, and flummery have often been too conspicuous. A girl with no record for scholarship might become the center of interest on her swell clothes.

In many towns there has been a rivalry in dressing. It was not always the wealthy homes that promoted it. They might take commencement as one social occasion among many, and one calling for no particular display. Meanwhile some girl from a modest home would be put through with all possible spread. It was that girl's one chance in a lifetime to make a splurge. After one gown for graduation and one or more for class day and Commencement dance had been provided, with shoes, flowers, etc., a $50 bill looked sick and very likely was wholly inadequate.

One consequence has been that many families of modest means have taken girls out of school at the beginning of the senior year just to save graduation expenses. This meant the exclusion of these girls from the fruition of their course, leaving it a broken and incomplete experience.

In many places of late there has been an effort to simplify graduations. In some high schools, the girls instead of bursting forth in the glory of French dressmaking, take pride in a dress of their own handiwork, costing perhaps not over $5.00. If these girls actually made their own clothing instead of depending on their mothers to do it, they learned a lesson that may be quite as valuable as anything covered by the flowery script of their diplomas.

Our public schools are supposed to give equality of opportunity and they do so legally and technically. But if social customs get started that bear harder on some than on others, the democracy is mostly on paper. School functions are no place for free spending or the display of money.

BROOKS DIDN'T WANT TO WEAR HIS MEDALS

Band Leader's Modesty Caused Mighty Argument in Lincoln Chautauqua Office.

Ellis Brooks, leader of the Brooks Band, which will be here Chautauqua week, has about fifty bronze, silver, gold and diamond medals. They were awarded him at world's fairs, expositions, concerts and conventions. When William Beers, director of advertising for the Lincoln Chautauqua, was arranging for the big posters he thought it would be well if Brooks were pictured wearing at least a few of these medals, some of which are worth hundreds of dollars apiece even as junk. He asked Brooks to have a photo made of himself wearing some of them. Brooks objected. He thought it would make him look like a peacock or a European duke. Mr. Beers insisted that a band master who had been complimented by Presidents McKinley and Cleveland had a right to be proud, and, anyway, the people on the circuits just simply must be shown what a really great bandmaster Brooks is. The modest leader still objected. Finally after much argument he capitulated and consented to put on "half a dozen or so." The picture he then had taken is the one on the big poster.

HE THOUGHT IT WOULD MAKE HIM LOOK LIKE AN EUROPEAN DUKE

SOLD TWO TICKETS TO WOODEN INDIAN

Ohio Man Breaks All Records as Season Ticket Salesman—Sold 600.

H. E. Frahm, a citizen of Osborn, O., sold over 600 season tickets for the Lincoln Chautauqua held in that town last summer. Two of these tickets he got rid of in the following manner:

He drove over to a small town near Osborn, walked up to a wooden Indian standing in front of a cigar store and said to the Indian, "You want two season tickets, don't you?" The Indian, of course, did not answer, but Indians are not naturally talkative anyway. Mr. Frahm took the silence to mean that the Indian wanted the tickets, but had no money to pay for them. He slipped the two tickets into a crack into the Indian's hand and then, walking into the cigar store, said to the proprietor: "Your Indian out there has taken two Chautauqua tickets, but has no money to pay for them. Can you help him out?" The proprietor was a good sport and handed Mr. Frahm $4.

GERMANY HAS NEW FOE

War Declared by Tavorara, Smallest Republic in World

Paris, June 4, 1917—The Republic of Tavorara, the world's smallest nation, has declared war on Germany and Austria. The new adversary of the Teutonic Powers is a small island situated north east of Sardinia. It is about five miles long by three wide and rises abruptly out of the sea to an altitude of half a mile.

Tavorara was known to the Romans as Budina and was famed for its pearl fisheries. Until 1882 it was an absolute monarchy, the last sovereign being Paul I. Upon his death a revolution made the island a republic, under the protection of Italy. The republic has a president, who is elected for a term of 10 years. Women have been given the right to vote.

One of Tavorara's fishing boats having been blown up by a mine, the republic declared war.

RAIDING GARDENS

Some people look at garden products as almost common property. The hosts of people who are putting hard labor into gardens this spring are beginning to ask just how safe their products are going to be in the dark of the moon by and by, when vegetables and fruits are matured.

In the outskirts of the larger towns there always seem to be people who know the location of all the promising crops, and who can do a very good stroke of business on a dark night with capacious bags. Some of them come in automobiles too, indicating that they are not always people on the hunger fringe of life. Their point of view is that the owner of a good big field of potatoes will never miss a few pecks.

Raiders by boys on fruit trees are often condoned by people of high respectability. When a man comes back after a successful life to receive honors in his home town, he is apt to brag about the apples and pears he stole as the tough kid of the neighborhood. And he is applauded for it too. But the boy who makes free with grapes and plums may later conclude that the owner of the cash drawer will never miss some of his shiny coins?

In former years fruit and vegetables were so abundant that they were given away. Great quantities of them rotted on the ground. The prices were so low that it did not pay to hire labor to pick them up. Under these conditions it was perfectly natural that they were looked at in a different light from ordinary forms of property.

Food supplies are now short, labor scarce, and every garden now being planted will represent effort and money. Raiding it will be just like rifling a cash drawer. One result of the school garden movement has been to change the feeling of children about stealing fruit. After they have put labor and pains into their little tract they get the point of view of the owner. The many people who are gardening this year will demand protection and they are entitled to it.

BETTER SANITATION NEEDED IN RURAL SCHOOLS

In the interests of efficiency and health there is increasing necessity for the application of scientific medical and sanitary knowledge to the administration of the public schools, in the opinion of the Public Health Service.

In general, the faults observed in rural schools, the annual report of the Service declares, are due to a lack of skilled advice, especially in regard to the location, construction and equipment of school buildings and disregard of sanitary principles governing water supplies, the disposal of sewage, ventilation, temperature, illumination, and the arrangement of school desks and blackboards. During the past fiscal year surveys have been made in rural districts of several states and many thousand school children have been examined. These examinations have included thorough testing of the eyes by competent oculists, tests of mental capacity, and the effect of sanitary environment on school progress, as well as inspection for the customary physical defects.

The conclusion is reached that there is great need for improvement in rural schools and that communities themselves will benefit if conditions are bettered, the schools serving as object lessons for surrounding sections. Conditions in country districts have been found below those in the cities and it is apparent that organized health work has largely been confined to the latter. Considered from a sanitary standpoint alone the Public Health Service is in favor of the consolidation of rural schools, since it must eventually result in the providing of better buildings and the organization of systems of efficient sanitary inspections.

After bitterly denouncing Congress for its dawdling delays, a good many men who intended to buy a Liberty bond will forget to do so.

It is denied that the United States is short on military equipment, as the new recruits can all be provided with broomsticks and wooden guns to drill with.

If we can't use food speculators to decorate lamp posts with as many of us would like to, they will at least be highly ornamental occupants of our falls.

The Russian army can't fight because it has no food or munitions, and the food and munition workers can't work because the army controls everything.

Not all the slackers are slouchy and disreputable looking toughs who won't go to war. Some of them occupy swell front houses and can't buy liberty bonds because they only pay 3 1/2 per cent.

The people who make fun of the roseate hopes expressed by the graduating essays are usually the same ones who find fault because no one in their town has the courage to go ahead and do anything.

ATTRACTIVE ADVERTISING

One of the reasons why the business of big metropolitan stores and mail order houses grows so fast, is that they get out such attractive advertising. Anyone who has looked through catalogs and department store advertising for the past few weeks, must have been impressed with the cleverness of the drawings by which the announcements of spring goods were illustrated.

The cute little cuts of the new summer styles fascinate the feminine reader. Then there are always carefully written little statements of detail, which give an idea of the fabric and give information about styles. A woman looking over this material gets an impression that the advertiser has the latest styles at very moderate prices. In men's clothing and many other lines similar good results are gained by clever illustrations.

These methods of advertising are open also to the smaller merchants. In many lines cuts can be had of wholesale dealers for the asking. Or if they have to be paid for they are gotten out at very low prices. They accomplish so much in attracting the eye to the story that surrounds them, that the dealer who does not use these methods suffers from the competition of those who employ them.

LESS FOR THE GARBAGE MAN

The Chicago Commission of Public Works reports that the amount of garbage collected in that city has been reduced from 400 tons to 200 tons daily, as the result it is supposed of the food economy campaign. If similar results could be obtained in every hotel and every home, much will have been done to remove the danger of a food famine.

places, must consider himself a member of the food conservation committee. If a person wants but half a potato, he helps reduce the potato supply by one half if he helps himself to a whole one.

The head of the household need not think he will seem ungenerous if he does not heap up the family plates with his helpings of food. If the children want more, let them come again two or three times.

Hotel and restaurant wastes are still more lavish than in the homes. The average hotel in serving a meat order will provide bread, potatoes, and often one or two other kinds of vegetables. In half the cases these side dishes are thrown away. Some restaurants are following the plan of asking each customer whether he wants bread, potatoes, and vegetables with his meat, and if he calls for them, they serve some or all of them without extra charge. This plan if generally adopted would save vast amounts of food and reduce costs.

Of course some eating places take advantage of the situation to make separate charges for bread, potatoes and vegetables, meanwhile holding meat at the old figures. This may or may not be warranted by the advances in food costs and probably the proprietor makes an additional profit out of it. A fair way would be to make a separate charge for every side dish served, based on the actual cost of providing it, and then let people order and pay for just what they want and no more. This would be very effective as a food economizer.

The principal trouble with the Consent of the Governed doctrine for Germany, is that so far the German people haven't consented to have the Consent.

How to Can Beans

The June Farm and Fireside says: "Many of our readers are asking us how to can particular vegetables, such as beans, peas, or corn. Here is the process for beans in detail: Select beans of the same age and color, and plan to can immediately after picking. String and wash well, and if you do not wish to can them whole cut them into uniform pieces. I like them canned whole. Blanch by placing in boiling water from five to ten minutes, depending on the age of the beans, and then plunge them quickly into cold water. Fill the jars, packing closely. Add one teaspoonful of salt to each quart of beans, fill the jars with boiling water, and put on the tops loosely. Put the jars in the canner. This may be simply a lard pail or wash boiler with a false bottom of wooden slats or, better, a wire rack, and the water in it should cover the cans about one inch. Have the water hot when the jars are set in and bring to a boil quickly. Count the time from the moment it starts boiling, and sterilize the beans two hours. Then remove jars and tighten covers. Use the same method for peas.

POTATOES LEFT TO SPOIL

Federal Investigators Find 15 Carloads on Remote Rural Siding Chicago, June 4.—Government investigators inquiring into the reasons for high-priced coal in Illinois, recently discovered 15 cars loaded with potatoes on a siding near Seatonville Ill. The potatoes, from the shipping directions on the cars, had originally been sent to Chicago. From this condition the investigators concluded they had been left on the siding to spoil while high prices were being maintained in the Chicago market.

Oliver E. Pagan, Government indictment expert, who drew the indictments Saturday against alleged egg speculators, will return here next week. The investigation of the food situation will continue before the June Grand Jury.

LENGTH OF WIRELESS WAVE

Naturally, It Is Four Times That of the Aerial, But This Does Not Always Hold Good

In articles of wireless telegraphy such expressions as 200-meter wavelengths, 600-meter wavelengths, 15,000-meter wavelengths are constantly used. In reply to a correspondent who asked how the length of the waves is measured the Scientific American gives the following simple explanation:

"The length of an electric wave is determined by a wave-meter. The natural wave-length of an aerial is four times its linear length, just as the wave-length of a note of a closed organ pipe is four times the length of the pipe, and the wave-length of the note of a tuning fork is four times the length of the box which is resonant with the note. However, other considerations make it difficult to measure the wave-length by a rule, and the wave-meter gives a more correct result than can be found by measuring the length of the wire."

How to Preserve Strawberries

In the June Farm and Fireside there is an article which says

"Strawberries are a favorite fruit, but must be given particular care in canning if they keep well. Wash and drain the fruit after hulling. While doing this, have cans and lids both heating in hot water. Measure the drained berries, and for each quart of berries allow one cupful of white sugar. Place the sugar in an aluminum or granite kettle, and add a few spoonfuls of water to keep it from burning until it melts. When the sugar has boiled long enough to drive all air out of it, add the berries. As these boil up gently, stir them down. When they have boiled up the second time, lift off the fire and can, taking the cans from the warm water one at a time as you can; put on the lid before filling the next can, tighten the lids, turn the can upside down and leave in that position four or five days. The berries then, when turned, will resume their proper position in the cans. I never lose strawberries when I follow this recipe."

Window Box Gardens

Now that potatoes are scarce every bit of available space is being used in growing them. Already the women of the nation have worked out a scheme of growing seed potatoes in window boxes, thereby adding several dollars to the family income. When the housewife prepares her potatoes for the evening meal she cuts a piece from the "rose" end of the potato off before peeling and plants it in the sitting room window box, which contains either leaf mold, coconut fibre or sand. Each piece, says one potato planter, should weigh not less than one and a half ounces, and the box should be kept in the window of a cool—but not too cool—room until the sprouts are from one-half to an inch high. Thus the housewife has a supply of seed potatoes, which are daily increasing in value.

Leap Year.

By the present method of reckoning time every year of which the number is divisible by four without a remainder is leap year, excepting the centennial, or even hundredth years, which are only leap years when divisible by four after suppressing the two ciphers. The year 1600 was a leap year, the years 1700, 1800 and 1900 were not leap years, but the year 2000 will be and every intervening year that is exactly divisible by four. From 1796 to 1804 and from 1896 to 1904 were eight-year intervals without a leap year.

Songs Inspire Shower of Crockery.

Street singing is an especially Neapolitan institution, and when for the first time one hears beneath his windows the more often than not offkey versions of the snappy, liting, inexpressibly infectious Neapolitan songs he is enchanted and throws pennies freely. After a week or so of it as a steady diet, day and night, he inclines much more to heavy crockery.—National Geographic Magazine.

Grecian Dolls.

As one might expect, the little Greek girls had beautiful dolls. They were made of clay and wax and decorated with bright colors. They had beautiful garments which could be put on and taken off at will, and some of them were made to represent the gods and heroes so much revered by the people. They were not stiff creatures, but had movable limbs.

That Made a Difference.

Pretty Nearly "All In."

Robert was convalescing from an attack of the grippie. His aunt, not realizing how weak he was, invited him for a walk. When they reached the end of the lawn he leaned against the gate and said: "Auntie, I feel like a broken toy."

Fat.

"I admit that it is much of an effort to keep your spirit from growing fat as to keep your body from growing fat," says Margaret Deland in the Woman's Home Companion. "It means making sacrifices; you will give up potatoes to keep your body light; you will have to give up faultfinding and gossip to keep your heart light. But the effort pays!"

The Majestic Magnolia.

There is no suggestion of timidity or coyness about the magnolia. It never appears in the role of offering an apology for being alive. No explanations are required. Like an independent, self-respecting citizen it faces the world unafraid. In kingly majesty it stands, an inspiring masterpiece of nature's unparalleled display of grandeur's sublime handiwork.

Worrying Always Weakens.

Worrying is always weakness, it is always danger. In a sense, though often excusable and sometimes unavoidable, it is cowardice; and cowards, as Shakespeare tells us, "die many times before their death." We may regard worry as the price paid by humanity for advance in education and in refinement of feeling; but it is a higher price than need be paid.—Exchange.

LIBERTY LOAN AIR BOMBS

Ruth Law Showers Them on Cleveland in Shape of Printed Appeals
Cleveland, June 4.—Ruth Law, aviatrix, in a biplane, circled over Cleveland and environs today dropping "Liberty Loan bombs." She had been scheduled to make a flight tomorrow, but the weather was so fine she decided to make the trip today. She started from Nela Park, in East Cleveland, and flying at a height of 5000 feet, dropped Liberty bond literature. Thousands watched her flight as she circled along the lake front, crossing over the west end of the city and then across the city back to Nela Park. Tomorrow Miss Law will start on a 10-day trip in the interest of the Liberty bond campaign dropping literature on several Middle West and Southwestern cities.

ASSERT YOURSELF

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS.

If you don't know what is in yourself, nobody else will ever know it. But just as soon as you recognize that you have considerable ability, that moment your ability sticks out.

Assert Yourself.

Napoleon was scarcely more than a boy when he took command of the Army of Italy. His soldiers almost mistrusted him, but the minute that he began to give his orders, concisely and straightforwardly, every man enthusiastically followed his lead. And battle after battle was won. For a Master Mind was at the helm.

Assert Yourself.

The inactive mind is the mind asleep, but the active mind is the mind Asserting itself. Just the minute you begin to systematically organize the forces within you and put a definite purpose in front of them, that minute you Assert Yourself, and the world recognizes in you a man or woman of initiative, of action, and of doing.

Assert Yourself.

You have yourself largely to blame if you stand complainingly today over your lot. Assert Yourself, demand recognition. And the happiness that is sure to come over you from the secret knowledge that you are going forward is sure to make you masterful and dominating.

Assert yourself.

SOME SMILES

Of Course Not.
"Mary Jane," called a voice down the stairway, "do you and that young man know what time it is?"
"How foolish, father! How can we be expected to know, sitting here in the dark."

Clever.
"Is that young man you are going with clever?"
"Clever, I should say he is. The other night when I was out riding with him he jollied three traffic policemen out of making complaints against him for speeding."

His Day.
"Your day, of all days," quoth the fortune teller, "is Saturday. Watch for it, for on that day you will receive a certain sum of money."
"You're right for once," said the fellow with the adjustable grin, "that's pay day."

Quite a Difference.
"Say, doctor, explain a little matter to me, will you? What's the difference between an artistic temperament and the other kind of bugs?"
"Oh, about $5,000 a week and a padded cell," answered doc.

Doubtful.
"Is your husband a regular attendant at lodge?"
"I wouldn't say that exactly, but he takes a night away from home regularly every week for that purpose."

A Drawback.
"The photographers' club I belong to is going to have a debate."
"Can't be done."
"Why not?"
"Because every man in the club will want to take the negative side."

Happy Fellows.
"These restaurant proprietors must be happy men," said Henpeck, glancing at a sign on the wall.
"Why so?" asked the only friend his wife would let him have.
"Look at that," responded the downtrodden one, pointing to a sign which read, "Not responsible for hats, other apparel or valuables."

But She Must Have.
"How do you do, Gladys, my dear? I hear you have a new baby at your house."
"Gee whiz, Mrs. Askalot, I knew he cried awful loud, but I didn't s'pose you could hear him way down here."

Good Management.
"Say, old Doolittle is an unlucky fellow. The court allowed him only $9,999 for the loss of his finger."
"Unlucky! Great Scott, man! He lost one digit and gained four. That's good business."

Salonica Churches Survive War.

The finest remains of the ancient city of Salonica are its churches. How they ever survived the tempests of the middle ages is a miracle. Nevertheless they did, 21 of them, says the National Geographic Magazine. The oldest of these churches, and after the arch of Galerius the most ancient monument in the city, is St. George. During the long Turkish period it was the mosque of Hortaji Suleiman Effendi. St. George is unlike any other church in Salonica or Constantinople in that it is of circular form. The dome of the church contains the finest mosaic in the city and one of the finest in the world.

Hunting the "Blue Tiger" With the Mercury at 150 Not the Greatest Sport

Hunting for tiger in a climate where the temperature at midday registers 150 degrees and at night 95, and where the humidity approximates 95, would not be considered sport exactly by the everyday citizen. Yet it is only one of the conditions with which Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Andrews had to contend in leading the Asiatic zoological expedition of the American Museum of Natural History.

Organized early in 1916 for the purpose of collecting zoological and ethnological material in southeastern China, the members of the expedition went to Fukien province, where the first real collecting was to begin. The account of their progress says in part: "One of the special objects of the expedition was to obtain, if possible, specimens of the 'blue tiger.' Mr. Andrews was fortunate in making the acquaintance of Rev. Harry R. Caldwell, a missionary, who, having seen two of these animals during his residence in that region, was the first to give authentic reports of the presence of this species of tiger. Members on two occasions had the blue tiger almost within reach, but he could not be induced to come out into view from the grass, which would have given an opportunity for a shot. During their stay in this province, however, they secured about 350 birds and 150 mammals, which have already been received at the museum.

"While in the vicinity of Li-Chiang the expedition worked for seven weeks on the slopes of a mountain 18,000 feet high, and during that time collected more than 1,100 mammals, which indicates the richness of the fauna. Among other specimens, they secured five gorals and four serows. Both of these animals are exceedingly rare and difficult to obtain. A large percentage of the mammals secured here will undoubtedly prove new to science, since no zoologist has previously visited this region."

Wise and Otherwise

Platitudes are useful in conversation. They give one such an air of respectable dullness.

It takes the moon two weeks to get full and two more weeks to get over it. Men are different.

When a girl is engaged to be married she is sorry for all the young men who missed their chance.

There are two periods in a man's life he doesn't understand a woman. One is before marriage and the other after.

Too many people spend their time condemning the conduct of others instead of spending it in improving their own.

If sealskin socks could be plucked from trees the average husband would have to squander his coin on other things to match.

It is easier for a married man to say that he is free from worry than it is for him to prove it to the satisfaction of other married men.

GREAT NEED OF FOOD

No Danger of Overproduction This Year—Dean Mumford.

Any Surplus Which American Farmers Can Produce Will Be Quickly Absorbed by Hungry People of England and France.

While the farmer is being urged to greater and greater production, he naturally considers the possibility of overproduction. Many farmers in the state have advanced this question. According to Dean F. B. Mumford in the Missouri College of Agriculture, overproduction is exceedingly improbable this year. It has been agreed that this country's part in the war will be largely to supply food. "Our food resources have been depleted by shipments to Europe and by several poor crop years," said Dean Mumford recently, "and now with unrestricted export to the allies, the small reserve which we have will be further decreased. Any surplus which the American farmers can produce will be quickly absorbed at war-time prices. Millions of people in England, France and other countries at war with the German powers are in need of food. They must have food not only for their civilian population but for their armies. They are too busy fighting to provide that food themselves. It then behooves the United States to supply food."

"But it is not alone for the allies that we must produce maximum crops. If we should have a poor crop year throughout the country, our own people may actually suffer."

"If Germany is able to continue the ruthless submarine warfare unhindered, some food will be lost on its way to Europe. Consequently the losses will tend toward a further shortage and to absorb any surplus even if there were danger of overproduction."

What would happen if peace should come within the next few weeks? Would not the markets be glutted? In answer to these questions, Dean Mumford said: "It is doubtful if there will be a great decrease in the demand for food immediately following the war. With commerce restored, every nation which is now at war will become a market place for American farm produce. Those countries have no food reserve left and they will turn to the United States to furnish food during reconstruction, and until they can feed themselves."

As an example of the actual scarcity of food in America, Dean Mumford cites the condition of wheat: "In 1915 the United States produced 10 bushels of wheat per capita; in 1916 we produced 6 bushels per capita, but used 6 1-3 bushels for seed and ordinary consumption and exported 2 1/2 bushels per capita. The present condition of wheat in the United States is 63 per cent of a normal crop. This is 23 per cent below the average for the last ten years. The condition in Missouri is even worse—59 as compared with the 15-year average of 85 per cent. The latest reports are that the world crop of wheat is far below average." Other foods are correspondingly scarce.

DEVICE TO HOLD DOOR OPEN

Half-Inch Piece of Board, Eight Inches Long and Three Wide Is Easily Arranged.

(By R. PHILLIPS, Washington.)
A simple device may be made which is useful for holding doors open when the old-fashioned lock is used. Take a half-inch board, eight inches long and three inches wide and shape it like the above cut. Screw it to a 2 by 4 on the barn where the stick on the lock projects. Nail it so the projecting stick hits the lock about one-fourth of an inch above the point. With a little pressure, the slope of the lock will make the projecting stick move up. When it comes to the notch in the lock it will drop down, locking the door back securely.

GROUND WIRE FOR FENCES

Danger of Death to Farm Animals From Lightning May Be Avoided With Little Work.

All danger of death to farm animals coming in contact with fence wires heavily charged may be avoided by attaching a wire to the strands of the fence every two or three hundred feet, running one end of it into the ground about four feet deep.

This will afford an outlet for the electricity and render the wire fence as safe as any other.

PROPER EGGS FOR HATCHING

Costly Mistake to Use Those From Unculled Flock—Best to Have Small Breeding Pen.

It is a costly mistake to hatch eggs from the whole uncultured flock, and to keep males enough the year around so that the eggs will be fertile.

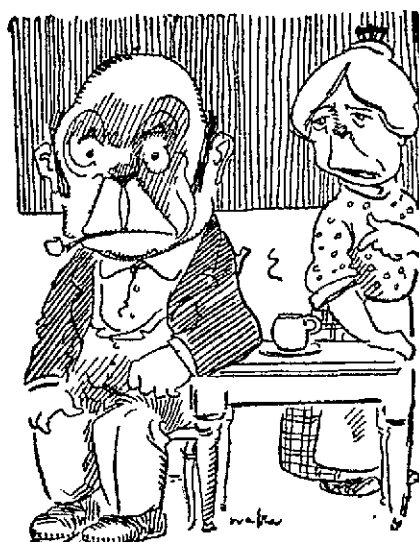

Far better get the eggs from a neighbor who culls his hens for hatching eggs, or send to some breeder who does. It is not an expensive thing to have a small yard for one's own best hens and mate.

FARM POULTRY

PACK CHICKENS FOR MARKET

Methods Recommended by Specialists of Agricultural Department—Chill Every Fowl.

Poultry packers are urged by the specialists of the agricultural department to give unusual attention to preparing and packing birds for shipment, particularly if the weather is mild. The following methods are recommended:

1. Keep the holding batteries for your incoming stock clean, well aired and free from vermin, and see that the chickens have plenty of fresh water and plenty to eat.
2. Don't kill a chicken when the crop is full of feed. Give the chicken only water for 24 hours before it is killed. Food in the crop or in the intestines of a dressed chicken causes loss of flavor and hastens decay, which more than offsets any gain from extra weight.

Shaping Weight and Board.

3. Good bleeding is absolutely essential to a good appearance on the market and retards decay.

4. Hang the chicken by both feet while picking. Hanging by one leg spoils the shape of the bird. Picking on the lap gets the skin dirty and hastens decay.

5. Dry pick if possible. Scalding is particularly undesirable because it hastens decay.

6. Chill every dressed bird until the body temperature is below 35 degrees F. Never pack or ship an imperfectly chilled bird. More decay is due to imperfect chilling than to any other single factor in dressing. Dry chill, if possible. Chickens cooled in water lose flavor, decay sooner, will not cold store as satisfactorily as dry-chilled, and are in every way more undesirable on the market. Refrigerator cars will carry well-chilled goods in good condition, but they cannot chill warm goods to a sufficiently low temperature.

7. Pack in boxes or small kegs whenever possible. A large barrel makes an undesirable package, because where poultry is packed in large masses the weight of the upper layers crushes the birds at the bottom.

8. Line all packages with parchment paper and cover the top of the poultry before the lid is put on.

9. Wrap every head in suitable paper so that blood from one bird will not mar the appearance of another.

10. Use only good refrigerator cars and see that they are in good order. Ice and salt the car 24 hours before loading. The car, at the end of 24 hours should show a temperature below 40 degrees F. at a point four feet above the floor and between the doors.

MATE UP PENS FOR HATCHING

Seasonable Hints Applicable to Chicken Yard Given by Expert of Colorado Station.

(By C. S. ANDERSON, Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins)

Now is the time to mate up the breeding pens for hatching eggs in February. Make the final culling, retaining only the strongest, thriftiest individuals.

See that these layers are receiving a good laying ration, supplying plenty of protein, green feed and oyster shells. This is the time to feed the surplus vegetables that are stored away in the cellar. A cabbage head suspended by strings, a couple of feet from the floor, will be relished by the hens. Be sure you are giving them plenty of exercise. Whole grain should be fed in a ten-inch litter. Clean up the incubator and get it in running order. It might be advisable to run a trial hatch before the season opens.

Splendid Farm Type.

There is always some new equipment such as brooders and feed hoppers, and this is the time to order all such supplies. Have you considered any addition to your poultry yard? A small trial with ducks, geese, turkeys, capons or pigeons might prove profitable.

Time Is The Test

The Testimony of Bedford People Stands The Test

"The test of time is what tells the tale. The public soon finds out when misrepresentations are made, and merit alone will stand the test of time."

Bedford people appreciate merit, and many months ago local citizens publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills; they do so still. Would a citizen make the statement which follows unless convinced that the article was just as represented? Below is testimony such as the sufferer from kidney ills is looking for.

W. H. Weyant, grocer, 243 W. Pitt St., Bedford, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are not a new medicine to me. I have used them off and on for a number of years and wouldn't be without them. I have to be on my feet a great deal and also do heavy lifting and at times, this has brought on backache and other kidney ailments. A few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills have always driven the attacks away."

OVER SIX YEARS LATER, Mr. Weyant said: "I still have a good word for Doan's Kidney Pills. I use them occasionally when I feel in need of a kidney medicine and they soon make me well."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Weyant has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Meeting of Napier, State Line Good Roads Association

On Friday, June 1, 1917, at Buffalo Mills, Pa., at 8 o'clock, the Napier, State Line Good Roads Association held their regular semi-monthly meeting.

Notwithstanding unfavorable weather conditions, there were several hundred present from points all along the route between Napier, Pa., and Ellerslie, Md., and the meeting was held in the Methodist Episcopal Church.

A committee was appointed, composed of Geo. S. Mullin, G. F. Hart, and G. F. Zembower, with power to locate and investigate all available material along the route that is used in the construction of a Macadam road.

The most important event of the evening was an address delivered by Ex-Lieutenant Governor, John M. Reynolds to the enthusiastic assemblage on the construction of State Roads and an explanation of road appropriations, intermingled with timely patriotic remarks which brought applause after applause from the large gathering.

New members were taken in to the number of 58, which was highly gratifying to all present, making a total membership of 140.

The next meeting will be held at Mann's Choice, Pa., on Friday, June 15, 1917, at 8 o'clock. We expect a large attendance and able speakers, and an invitation is extended to one and all to be present.

TO ONE ACROSS THE WAY

Oh, neighbor, just across the way,
(Your name we do not care to mention)

Come bend an ear, that is to say,
Pray give us your attention.

Though we commend the zealous zeal
Wherewith we see you hasten to it
And mow your lawn, at times we feel
You rather overdo it

We're pleased to see you take delight
In making yours a yard to cherish,
It's clear you mean to have it quite
The finest in the parish

Still while this purpose you pursue
Though you are pleased enough,
Old duffer,
We wish to make it clear to you
The rest of us must suffer.

So heed, before at least a score
Of neighbors come to give thee battle,
Who wake to hear each morn at four
Thy lawnmower's noisy rattle!

Koonitz and Bedford Band for leading the parade, to the public spirited citizens who furnished automobiles and to all who in any way helped to make the occasion a grand success.

Memorial Committee,
Camp No. 81, P. O. S. of A.

Flag Raising

The flag raising at Hyndman on Memorial Day, though it was rather hurriedly arranged, was of unusual interest. Quite a large number of spectators were present to pay respect to Old Glory.

A magnificent flag was unfurled promptly at 1 p. m., by a veteran of the Civil war. As the salute was being fired by United States soldiers Old Glory opened her stripes to the breeze dropping hundreds of small flags from her interior. These were anxiously sought as souvenirs.

A large part of the program was quite new, being given by U. S. Soldiers, who are stationed here and also those who were visiting here from nearby guard stations.

A large number of school children took part as well as a military band and able speakers. Though the program was hurriedly arranged it was exceptionally fine and most interesting, thus placing Old Glory, the most magnificent of all banners, at a height where all might see her.

FACTS ABOUT GOATS

Every vicid kid shoe is made from goatskin.

All "mohair" goods in the dress line are made from goat hair.

The average Angora goat will produce about six or eight pounds of mohair.

The meat of the purebred goat is excellent and very similar to mutton.

The silk plush of every Pullman car is made of Angora goat hair.

The Angora reaches the size of an ordinary sheep, but it is slower to mature.

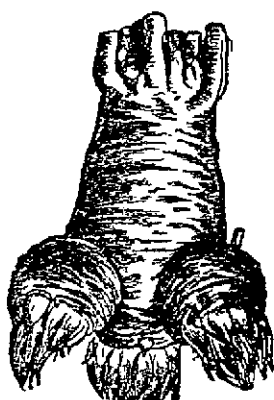

Goat milk gives a constitution to the child which cannot be obtained from cow's milk.

Angoras will thrive and live in any climate of our country where sheep will.

HORSE-RADISH IS GOOD CROP

Excellent Variety Discovered by Explorer of United States Department of Agriculture.

An excellent new variety of horse-radish was discovered by the United States Agricultural Explorer David Fairchild in Bohemia, a few years ago. Cuttings from this planted in April will produce fine large roots for grating the following October, and if left in the ground until spring, will grow to very large size. It is white and of excellent quality. Horse-radish grows on almost any kind of soil, and will stand the dry weather as well as potatoes. In planting horse-radish, fit the soil the same as for strawberries, and cultivate the same as any other garden crop.

Many persons plant horse-radish in some out-of-the-way spot and dig a piece of the root as often as needed, leaving the fragments of roots in the soil to grow for further use. This method results in having nothing but tough, stringy roots, very unlike the product of a properly planted and well cared for bed. The best roots are those planted in the spring at the time of setting early cabbage, and dug as late the same fall as the weather will permit. It becomes therefore, an annual crop.

INCREASE YIELD BY PRUNING

Pinch Off Center Buds, Thus Throwing Energy of Plants to Formation and Ripening of Fruit.

The yield and quality of many vegetables can be increased by pruning and pinching off center buds, thus throwing the energy of the plants to the formation and ripening of fruit.

With muskmelons and cantaloupes I always pinch off the center bud of the main vine when it reaches a length of four or five feet, says a writer. Cucumbers are treated in a like manner. Such treatment results in increased size of the fruit and a hastening of maturity. For the same reason the ends of pole and lima bean vines are pinched off when they reach a height of six feet.

Tomato vines expected to yield an early crop are pruned severely. But three stalks are allowed to develop, all side shoots being pinched off as soon as they begin to form. The three stalks are firmly supported by a stake four feet in height.

When the vines reach the top of the stake the center bud is pinched out. This stops height growth and throws all the energy of the vine to the developing and ripening of fruit already set. By following this method I have obtained as high as 40 fine, perfect tomatoes from a single plant.

WAR GARDENS FOR EVERYONE

Supplies Are Needed for Armies Fighting for Brotherhood and Peace, Says Dean Woods.

Every family should have its own garden this year. "To do so will be to release supplies for the armies that are fighting for brotherhood and peace," says Dean A. F. Woods of the Minnesota College of Agriculture.

"To hasten the close of the war," adds Dean Woods, "we must feed the people in the armies. The farmers are doing everything possible and the people of the towns should assist by avoiding waste and extravagance. They should make gardens not only in their back yards, but in their front yards as well, and on vacant lots. They should organize garden clubs, including women and children, and grow enough to supply their needs not only through the summer, but through the winter. They can do this by intensive effort."

Dean Woods urges boys' and girls' clubs, Boy Scouts, teachers, preachers and all public-spirited citizens to lead in this work.

Reduction to Be Made in State Highway Department

Harrisburg, June 5.—The Appropriation Committees of the Senate and the House of Representatives have agreed upon the appropriations for the State Highway Department for the next two years, with the result that a substantial reduction in the original budget is contemplated. As introduced in the House of Representatives, the bill made an appropriation of twelve million dollars for State Highway construction in townships and two million dollars for State Highway construction in boroughs. These items have been reduced to seven million dollars for the construction of State Highways in boroughs and townships.

The State aid appropriation of three million dollars, as originally planned, has been reduced to two million dollars.

The item of five hundred thousand dollars for the purchase or condemnation of turnpikes remains unchanged and the township bonus for earth roads, which is disbursed through the State Highway Department, is substantially the same as in the original bill.

State Highway Commissioner, Frank B. Black expresses some disappointment over the proposed cut in the items covering construction and points out the fact that the sum contemplated would build only 250 miles of improved roads during the next two years, leaving the State with over 6,350 miles of earth roads on State Highway routes.

In discussing highway work for the appropriation period, Commissioner Black was emphatic in his statement that the appropriation for construction did not mean that the Department would let contracts regardless of cost. "We shall exercise our discretion in the awarding of contracts," he said, "and will do no work where the contractors bid beyond reason. We regard an increase of twenty per cent. as probably justified by the abnormal conditions which prevail at present but anything beyond that must be looked upon as extravagant at this time."

Commissioner Black said further that he regarded it as economic wisdom to have ample appropriations available, so that use could be made of any surplus labor that might seek employment in the event of a sudden cessation of the war. "The appropriation of any large sum to the Department," said the Commissioner, "does not mean that the money must be spent. It only makes it available if needed and I have no hesitancy in pledging the Department against the awarding of any extravagant contracts."

"The Department is opposed to the building of any other than high types of permanent highways," he said, "and we are inclined to believe that concrete should enter into the foundation of every road, as in the construction of the more permanent types of wearing surfaces, such as brick, concrete and bituminous concrete, it is very essential that the foundation be of an unyielding character, such as concrete. I think that the construction of waterbound macadam roads should be abandoned entirely, especially on main arterial routes, on account of the heavy maintenance expense."

"The State Highway Department is organized in such an elastic manner," said the Commissioner, "that it can be expanded easily to take care of ten million dollars' worth of construction work each year. All that is necessary to bring this about is an adequate appropriation by the Legislature for salaries and expenses of such additional engineers, assistant engineers, superintendents, clerical assistants, draughtsmen and other employees and laborers, skilled or unskilled, necessary to carry out any amount of work in contemplation."

WOODBURY

Nason Hoffman, of Altoona, spent over Sunday with his father, H. B. Hoffman.

Ira Keagy of Altoona, was a recent guest of his mother, Mrs. Annie Keagy.

L. B. Stayer, Cashier of the Farmers' Bank, spent several days recently at Harrisburg.

Mrs. Isaac Dillen, Misses Vina Lecrone and Nellie Felton and Harry Lecrone, spent Monday in Altoona.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Fluke and little son Richard of Altoona, were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Dillen.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bolger and Martin Baird, and wife motored to Everett on Sunday and spent the day with friends.

Mr. W. A. Schooley, Coy and Martin Baird spent Monday with friends at Pleasantville.

Last week we were permitted to see the new automobile funeral car just completed by funeral director, J. N. Byers, of Woodbury. This car certainly is a wonderful piece of construction, every inch of the work from the running gear up was done by Mr. Byers by hand. All carvings and mouldings were carefully designed and worked with the greatest exactness with his own hands. Many visitors look this wonderful piece of mechanical skill over with admiration and free to say they never saw any thing of the kind to compare with it for beauty and durability.

The car is Mahogany finish on the inside of the body and is equipped with a large and powerful 4-cylinder Jeffery gasoline engine; under all is a wheelbase of 137 inches. The people in this part of the Cove certainly should feel proud that they have a mechanic such as Mr. Byers in their midst and should appreciate his labor and skill which certainly is up to date and should satisfy the demands of this age of progress. The car is ready for use.

Children services will be held in the Lutheran Church at this place on Sunday evening.

Claar-Hull

Thomas Mock Claar and Melzie May Margaretta Hull of Alum Bank were united in marriage at Cumberland, Md., on Friday, June 1st, by Rev. M. L. Enders, pastor of the St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Thomas Mock Claar is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Claar, of Alum Bank and is a member of the Dunkard Church, of Dunkard Hollow and is also a well known farmer of Alum Bank. Melzie May Margaretta Hull is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hull of Sonora, Texas and is a member of the M. E. Church, of Alum Bank and has been our assistant Secretary of the M.E. church Sunday School for four years and also a member of the Volunteer Bible class and of the Epworth League of the M. E. Church. After a honey moon trip through the Eastern part of the State, they returned home on Saturday evening, at which time the Calthumpum band turned out and gave them a good serenading. We wish the young couple happiness and a long and prosperous life. Jim.
